The day has come; the work is over.

This book is a dedication of many, capturing moments of who we really are.

With the treasured moments from kindergarten to the present, from learning to write our name for the first time until now, it is time to move to the next level.

As tassels are turned together, let us remember that we are the faces in the crowd, the fans in the stands, the competitors, the leaders, the movers, the shakers.

We have shared successes. We have suffered disappointments. We have felt each other's pain.

In the end, we all beam with pride as we reflect on the Orange and Blue tradition. — as we capture reflections of you — perfection!

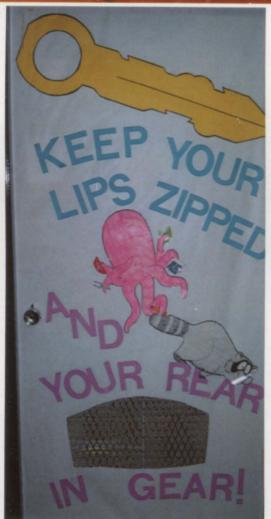

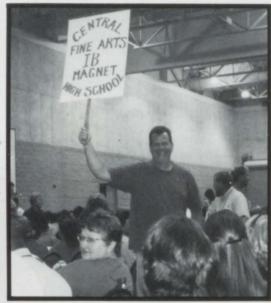

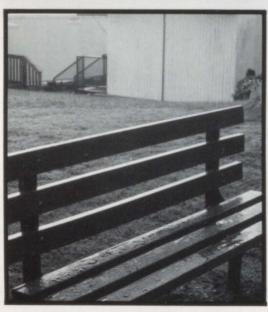

The first day of school isn't something students usually look forward to. But when the alarm clock rang, students rolled out of bed, dragged themselves to school and thought, "this is my life for the next 180 days." When the students arrived, they got a rude awakening. With the new block scheduling, everyone was required to be at school earlier. They had to adjust to the new parking procedure and misplaced classes. But students got in the groove soon enough, and the year's activities fell into place.

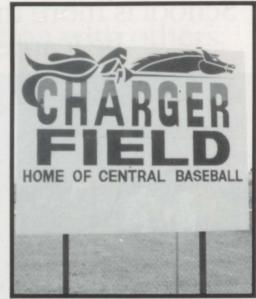

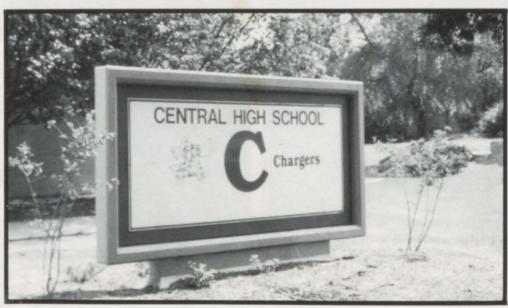

School is more than test and studies; there's more to be learned outside of the classroom.

Class Of 2002

Central High School Principal, Pam Wacter

Mrs. Wacter reflecting on the day's events

"Reflection" ... is it a temporary image in a mirror we check before resuming our schedules? Is it only a fleeting consideration of our appearance before we meet friends? "Reflection" can carry a far more lasting and important role in our development. The act is really a time a assessment — an evaluation of past accomplishments and involvement, the part those events have played in the development and shaping of who we are now and how far we have traveled in our journey toward goals and dreams. Cherish this record of your starting place in your race for greatness and fulfillment! Congratulations on another successful year!

Reflections of ourselves are mirrored in our past, which is just as much a part of us as the present. We are open to the new ideas and promises of the world. At the same time, we cling to the friends and memories that made our high school experience a reminder of where we are from and what we are capable of accomplishing. We begin to look at the future, but first we must reflect on experiences learned in our past.

Being a sophomore is being called basic. It is also another year of change. We are not quite an upperclassman, yet not a piece of fresh meat either. So we view diversity as an asset, and this year made us realize that we need to take a closer look at what exactly is unique. Simply, it's us, the basics.

FRESHMEN

Every individual has a set image of themselves as well as the people around them. While one person's purpose is to examine the mirror to find his identity, he must realize that others are also trying to find their own. We are called to be open and supportive of those around us as we attempt to find a positive perception of ourselves.

CLASSES & ACADEMICS

We are told that we are whiners and slackers. We are part of the ME generation and think the we are the center of the universe. BLAH, BIAH, BLAH!

— but we have friendly faces and great personalities. We excel in sports, leadership, and proudly display our talents. We are involved in clubs, many activities, and classes, classes, classes that help others as well as ourselves.

We all experience the joys of learning, from the late night cramming sessions to the dreadful report cards! At times, school may seem like the biggest hassle in life. However, as we reflect back on our experiences, we recognize that this is a time of preparation for the future.

BANTAATIONS

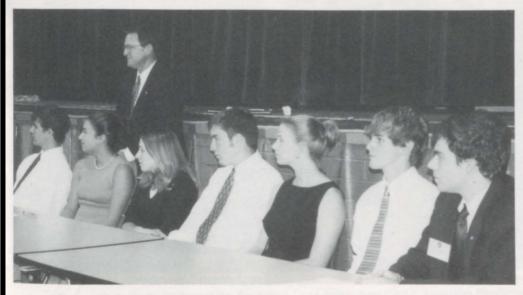

As we strive to examine our image in the mirror, we come to realize that although we are alone in our solitary cell, there are other people with similar interests and concerns. In order to achieve our individual dreams, we must learn to come together as a group. We must organize. Although we may not be able to impact the community alone, together we can do anything.

You win some; you lose some. This was common knowledge among the athletes that participated in school sports. But winning and losing weren't the only lessons. School sports taught teamwork, extra effort and how to overcome obstacles. The lessons learned were ones that could be applied in life. And even though winning wasn't everything, teams learned how fun it was. Some teams surprised even themselves by making it to play offs and brought home trophies, awards and recognitions.

The world around us is constantly changing and improving. These advancements only come as we strive to find the best in ourselves. These champions are willing to push beyond what is expected in order to maintain Central's renowned reputation for excellence.

These awards are as diverse as the student body. True honor comes from the internal desire to reach personal perfection, not an altruistic wish to illicit praise from those around us.

It is our goal to recognize as many of these students as possible and to encourage others to strive for the best. We must all be sure that we see honor when we look at our reflection in the mirror.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Endless opportunities await those with determination and drive. As students and future world leaders, we have the ability to accomplish any dream or goal that we choose to pursue. Each advertisement in this section represents the realization of a dream.

Regardless of how modest or extravagant, someone had to strive to see its fulfillment.

Aside from representing dreams and achieving goals, the financial revenue generated from advertising sales allowed staff members to achieve at least one of their dreams—to produce this book of memories for you.

This section also represents success and should serve as an inspiration to us all. When we see our reflection, may we also see the potential and succeed in future endeavors.

Amanda.

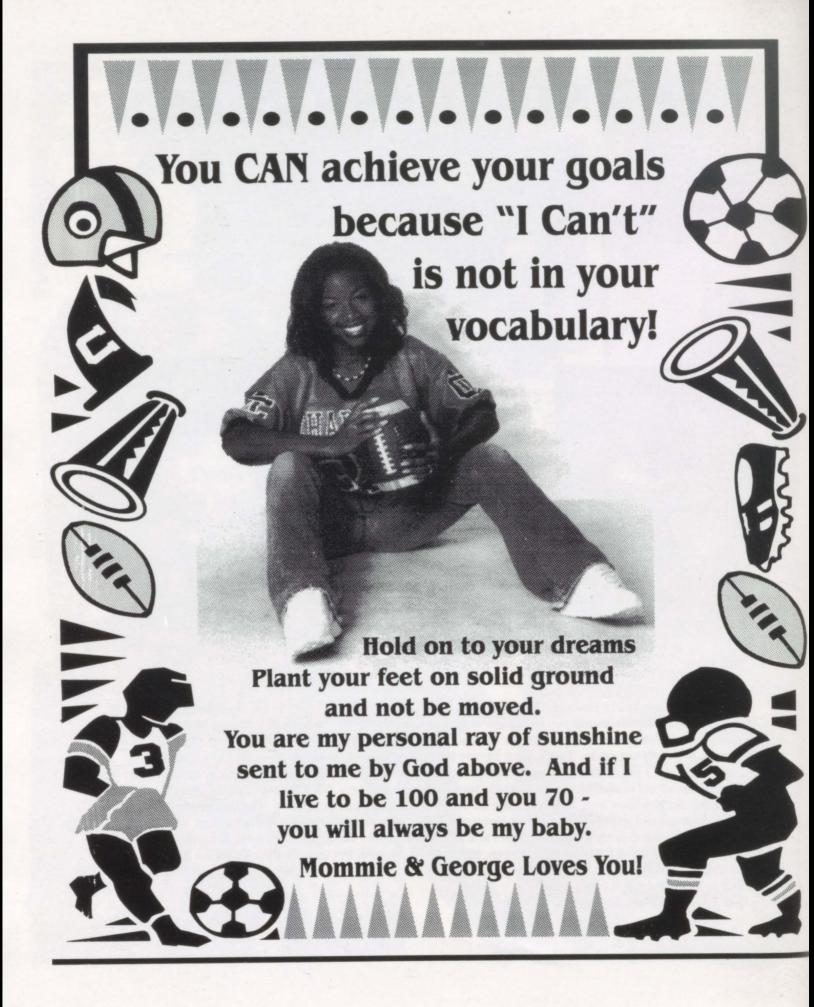

You have just completed a memorable part of your life journey. To you, the time slowly, but to us it has raced by. The life lessons you have been taught by your family & friends will now help to make you into the adult you wish to become. Remember to stand strong & hold fast to your dreams. Your thoughts, feelings, & beliefs are yours. Don't allow anyone to condemn you for them or try to change them.

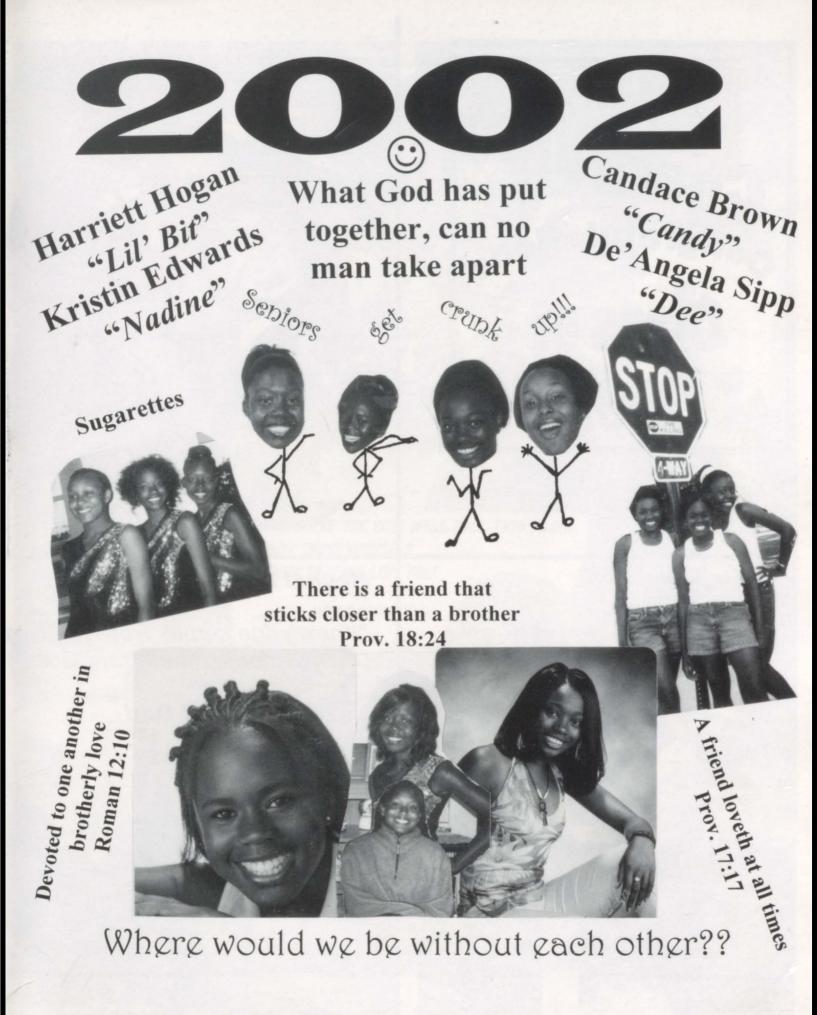

The path you choose now will create your future. Don't be afraid to laugh, learn, or to cry. Most of all, don't be afraid of challenges. Challenges turn fears into courage. BE COURAGEOUS! BE BOLD! Reach for the brightest star. Don't hesitate or wait for the most opportune time. The time is NOW! Enjoy today. Remember yesterday. Anticipate tomorrow. May your future be bright & prosperous.

As the curtain closes on your years at CHS, sit back, view the results, rewards, & accomplishments of goals. As you strive for success, be strong, be honest, & be wise, but most of all don't forget to stop, smell the daises, & be thankful.

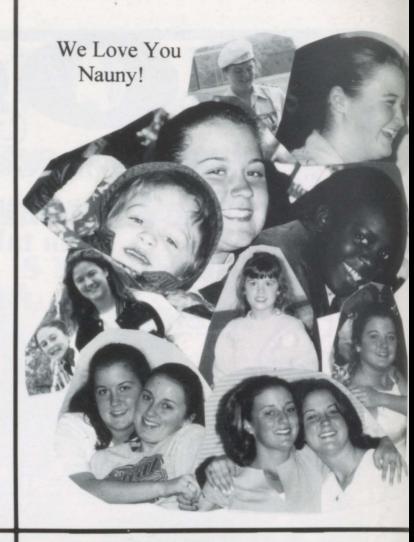

Love to you always,

Dad, Billie, Hannah, Brittany, & Allie (the doggie)
